Candidate declares for NDP

This provincial election campaign is an opportunity for the New Democratic Party to gain a toe hold in this riding, says Ivan Moore, the likely candidate to carry that party's banner.

Moore, a 68-year-old Lindsay resident, appears to be the only candidate seeking the NDP nomination for the Victoria Haliburton Riding Association. The position was left vacant when former NDP candidate Art Field announced he is not interested in running in this election.

Moore says there is a need for improved public transportation for the many commuters who travel out of Lindsay to work each day.

Regarding cable television, Moore says he wants the local station to provide the Pay TV stations. "They don't have Pay TV. I can't understand why they don't have it here. I don't know why it's not offered."

Although Moore says he has not been actively involved in any prior election campaigns, he says he has always voted for the NDP and has been a card-carrying member for a number of years.

Moore was born and raised in Mariposa Township and went to high school in Little Britain. He worked as a butcher in a family store in Omemee until 1946 when he joined the army. He is a member of Branch 67 of the Royal Canadian Legion, a member of the Moose Lodge and a member of the International Foresters.

Moore also worked as a painter and decorator for a number of years after the war until his retirement.

The nomination meeting for the New Democrats is slated for 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Lindsay Legion Hall. At this point, Moore is the only candidate who has expressed an interest in winning the nomination.

Spawning beds improved

Within five years, anglers could be reaping the benefits of a Ministry of Natural Resources project, designed to improve spawning conditions for lake trout on Koshlong Lake.

The aid of funding from the new resident sport fishing licences, the ministry plans to deposit about 36 cubic yards of rock rubble over a lake trout spawning area on the north end of the lake.

Minden District Biologist Wayne Wilson said the project, which began last week, is in response to studies that revealed an almost non-existent breeding success rate for the lake trout stocked in Koshlong. He said the fish are spawning, but a lack of good rubble beds has resulted in most eggs being eaten by predators.

Koshlong Lake is a Fisheries Assessment Unit Lake, says Wilson. Since 1980, the ministry has been collecting information about the fish in the lake to provide them with background to be used in managing Koshlong and other similar lakes.

Through the studies of this lake, the ministry discovered that the rate of reproduction of lake trout is minimal. By identifying where the fish are spawning, they determined that the problem is with the spawning beds.

Lake trout spawn in the fall in clean loose rubble, said Wilson. With the use of sonic tags, the ministry was able to locate the fish during the prime spawning period and found them congregating in an area that provides poor protection for the eggs.

Wilson said the fish were spawning, but not in a good area. He said the bottom surface of the spawning area is hard rock with very little cover. All the eggs were being eaten off, he said.

Because it is impossible to persuade the fish to spawn in a different area than the one they have chosen, the only alternative is to improve that area. Utilizing a 21 foot steel boat, ministry crews were out last week depositing rubble over the area the trout had been congregating last fall.

Wilson said the ministry has been stocking Koshlong Lake with about 4,000 lake trout every year or two. At the cost of about one dollar for each fish stocked in the lake, he said it is an expensive venture trying to maintain a lake trout population there. He said the ministry's hope is that the improved spawning bed will increase the success rate of the trout to the point

Minden debate is confirmed

Haliburton County residents will have an opportunity to find out where the three local candidates in the provincial election stand on the various issues during a debate at the Minden Community Centre on September 3.

While a number of debates are being arranged in the southern part of the riding, the Minden debate, sponsored by The Times, is the only one set up in Haliburton County to date.

All three candidates have accepted the offer to participate in the debate, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. The format will provide the candidates with an opportunity to respond to specific questions during the first hour. Following this, it will be open to questions from the floor.

For more election coverage, see page three.

3,000 enjoy bluegrass

How many people hear the word "Irish" and automatically think of Bluegrass music? Probably a lot more than you think after last weekend's Haliburton Bluegrass Festival. It was sponsored by the Legion and organized mainly by Joan and Gerry Irish.

In only the second year of operation, the festival managed to make money. "Most festivals don't go into the black until the fourth or fifth year, but we were in the black in our second," says Irish. Needless to say, they are calling the second annual Haliburton Bluegrass Festival a success.

Three years ago, when the idea for the bluegrass festival was first suggested, the Irish's didn't even know what the difference between bluegrass and country music was. That didn't stop them, though, from giving it a try. When last year's festival went fairly well, they decided a few changes here and there would really boost it.

Perhaps the most significant change was the location. The Bluegrass Festival wasn't moved but Glebe Park, where the festival has been held the last two years, has undergone considerable improvements over last year. The Legion received a $50,000 grant from the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation to make improvements at the park. Last year the audiences sat on dirt but new sod was added and a roof was put over the stage. There are also plans to build a permanent stage on the site.

Over the three-day event, an estimated crowd of 3,000 listened to over 24 hours of bluegrass music from such performers as Mac Wiseman, Blue Mule and White Water Bluegrass. Irish says the day gate was up over 300 per cent from last year, with most of the crowd coming from the immediate area or within a 350 kilometre radius. But next year they are expecting even more. Organizers hope that the success of this year's festival will put Haliburton on the bluegrass map.

Concern raised over noise problem

The summer has been a particularly noisy one, according to several residents of the downtown area of Minden, and they want the municipal council to take some action to curtail the problem.

Gord Monk appeared before council Thursday morning to express his concern about the situation. The operator of the village's funeral home, and several other downtown residents, told the council this summer had been particularly bad for noise, a result of individuals playing radios on the riverbank at night, squealing tires and large gatherings. "Last night I was disturbed by the noise until 1:20 a.m.," Monk told the meeting.

He suggested the council should enforce its noise bylaw or institute a night patrol aimed to eliminate these problems from the core area. Monk said efforts to contact the bylaw enforcement officer had been unsuccessful since he was unable to get the man's phone number from Bell Canada, after the municipal office was closed.

Monk, who also owns a funeral home in Bobcaygeon, said there was no problem in that community with noise. He said he was not blaming the hotels here for the problem, but felt irresponsible individuals from the community and camps created the disturbances.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said he had received a number of complaints during the past week as well and had made an effort to monitor the situation. He said the police had increased their patrols and he felt the situation had improved during the week. He suggested that better lighting in the downtown area would help to reduce the problem of groups congregating there.

Monk also asked the council to enforce the community's property standards bylaw. He said the state of some properties in the core area left a lot to be desired and if the properties were fixed up, it could instill more respect on the part of those using the area.

Deputy Reeve Bern Berry attempted to introduce a motion calling for the introduction of a new anti-noise bylaw. He noted the problem is not just one of the village, but rural residents experience it as

Tiring race

It's 8 a.m. on Day 13 of the campaign. While most people across the Victoria-Haliburton riding are sipping their morning coffee before setting off to work, Progressive Conservative candidate Art Ward is already fielding calls from supporters and campaign workers who want to keep abreast of his activities for the day.

In a small office in his home, adjacent to the Wig-a-mog Inn, Ward is preparing for another long day on the campaign trail. With 12 days of campaigning already behind him, Ward is showing no signs of tiring. In fact, he seems to enjoy the fast pace associated with this election race.

Ward, who won his party's nomination a few months ago, had been slowly gearing up for the election call, doing some informal advance campaigning. Although he says he was anxious for actual campaigning to begin, he admits there have been times when he has wondered what he has gotten himself into.

Waging a summer election campaign is particularly difficult for Ward. As a resort owner, he is relying on his wife, Joan, to manage the Wig-a-mog during one of the busiest times of the year.

While he says he is confident the business will carry on without his constant attention, it is apparent that he is less willing to let go of the behind-the-scenes work of his own campaign. In previous provincial elections, Ward has always been involved in the organizational end of the campaign. And now that he is the candidate, he says he still feels a need to make sure that this sort of work is being done.

By 8:15, after first ensuring that campaign manager Barry Devolin has everything under control at the office, Ward drives off toward what will be the first of many stops throughout the day.

With just 30 days before voters go to the polls, Ward has a great deal of ground to make up on Liberal Candidate John Eakins if he hopes to win this riding. Unlike most political candidates, Ward is candid about his chances here. "There's one thing for sure," he says. "I'm not going to peak too soon."

As a number of his supporters pointed out, Ward is in for a long haul if he hopes to make large gains on Eakins. Whether or not another 30 days of campaigning is enough time to pick up this support remains to be seen. However, Ward knows the odds and is doing everything he can to turn them in his favour.

Wednesday's campaigning saw him making stops in Minden, Miners Bay, Norland, Coboconk, Fenelon Falls and Lindsay. During this mainstreeting, he was asked to explain his stand on everything from capital punishment and abortion to the proposed closing of five schools in the northern part of Victoria County.

At one stop in Norland, Ward was confronted by a storeowner who insisted on hearing his views on just about every issue being addressed in this provincial

Bright outlook

The sun is shining, business is booming, there are more jobs than workers and the Liberal government is still riding high in the polls. The summer is generally considered a poor time for an election call. However, for John Eakins and the Liberal party, the outlook could not be much brighter. Last Thursday morning, Eakins arrived in Minden for half a day of mainstreeting in town before heading off to Peterborough to join up with party leader David Peterson. Accompanied by an entourage of three campaign workers, Eakins made his way from business to business to "re-apply for the job."

After fighting his way through numerous elections, Eakins says he no longer enjoys campaigning. However, he says there is a good side to campaigns, and that is getting out to meet people. It is easy to see that he enjoys this part of the campaign. He says this is one of the few occasions when he can afford the time to stop in at all the businesses and find out what their concerns might be.

Concerns, however, seemed to be nonexistent as he made his way through Minden. Almost every person he spoke with seemed more than satisfied with Eakins' performance and that of the provincial government. Instead of discussing issues, Eakins found himself engaging in general conversations about the weather, business and mutual friends. A number of people made it a point to thank Eakins for the work he has done for the riding.

In contrast to Conservative candidate Art Ward's hectic pace, Eakins appears relaxed and unhurried. His agenda for the morning had initially called for a stop at Hyland Crest after mainstreeting in the downtown core. However, with almost everyone wanting to stop and chat with Eakins, the trip to Hyland Crest had to be cancelled in order for him to get back on schedule.

Eakins is relying on voters' satisfaction with his past performance in being re-elected. Even loyal Conservative voters readily admit that Eakins is well liked all across the riding. And with few bitter issues being raised either locally or provincially, the odds of being unseated are slim.

However, there is one issue which could prove to be a bee in his bonnet. Many residents of Norland, Coboconk, Burnt River, Kirkfield and Kinmount would like to win his support in their struggle to maintain their local schools.

This is an issue on which Ward hopes to gain some support. Eakins, on the other hand, says this is not a provincial issue. He says his sympathies lie with those who want to keep the schools open, but he feels it is the Board of Education's responsibility.

The Save Our Schools committee has invited the candidates to debate this issue, but Eakins has turned down the request, saying a single-issue debate is not fair to the voters with interests in other issues.

A number of debates are being lined up around the riding, and Eakins says he is willing to address any issues

When the heat is on, there is no better way to cool down than with a swim in one of the many lakes throughout the Haliburton Highlands. Of course, this only applies to those lucky enough to own a piece of waterfront property or who happen to know one of the few public access points.

One of the best kept secrets in the county is where the municipalities are hiding the boat launches and public beaches. And one of the favourite pastimes of these councils is stopping up and closing as many of these access points as they can handle in any given week.

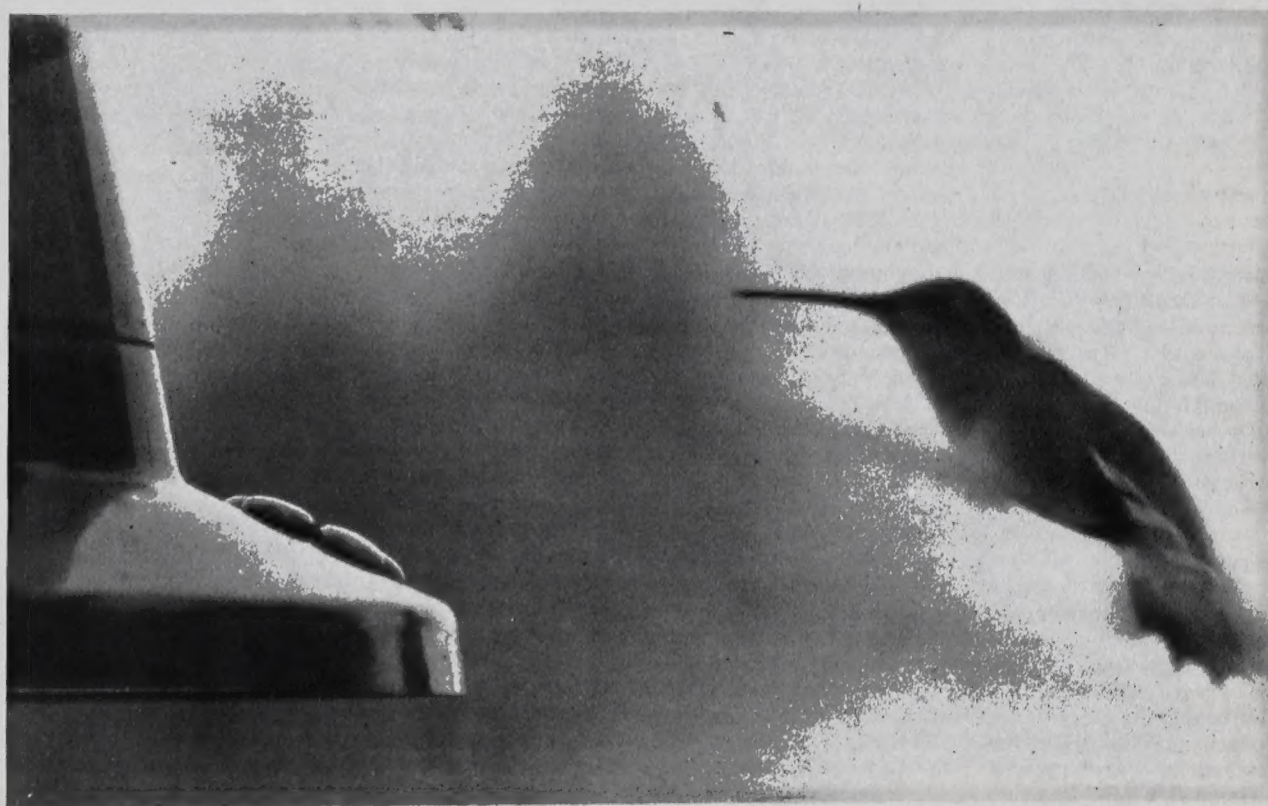

The beautiful Haliburton Highlands tourist area is well known for its abundance of lakes. Anyone passing through must feel envious of the people who live here and who can enjoy the benefits of the vast waters. However, unless something is done to put a lid on the rapid selling off of public access points, we might as well concede that these are privately owned lakes, which can be used only by waterfront property owners and their guests.

Cottagers cannot be blamed for wanting to reduce the traffic on their lakes. However, the various councils should realize that these lakes are public domain when they agree to requests to close off yet another public access.

Ministry regulations require that a certain number of access points to each lake be maintained. However, the municipalities seem more than willing to remain hush about where these access points lie.

Over the past few years, the number of these accesses has been dwindling at an alarming rate. And once they are sold off, it is unlikely they will ever be re-opened or replaced with another.

We feel it is time to put a stop to the closures. Inland residents and visitors have as much right to the waterways as do lakefront property owners.

A taste of nectar.

Confusing regulations

Varied interpretations of regulations regarding the sale of shoreline road allowances has caused Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council to seek advice from the county.

A recent request from a resident to purchase a portion of a shoreline road allowance, accompanied by a proposal to fill in part of the flooded portion, caused some confusion regarding the ownership of the property.

According to councillor Verne Graham, the township is allowed to sell only the unflooded portion of the 66 foot property road allowance. Therefore, if a resident extended his property by filling in a flooded portion, that extension would still be the municipality's property.

Graham said he raised the question of ownership with the Ministry of Natural Resources where he received a number of conflicting opinions.

The township will be writing to the county office to get its interpretation of the guidelines.

Inactive BIA

In other council business, the Minden Business Improvement Area came under council's criticism for its inactivity as of late.

Councillor Graham said

Minden is "dragging behind in all the projects we have funds for." The issue was raised when Deputy Reeve Bern Berry was asked to give a report on BIA activities at Thursday's meeting. He replied that he has no report. He said there have been no meetings.

Berry suggested that council meet with the BIA officer to find out what is

Sets strong legislative record

-by Bill Scott MP-

During the First Session of the Thirty-Third Parliament, the Progressive Conservative government established an impressive legislative record. Legislation was passed to improve pensions, overhaul the Divorce Act, enhance agricultural programs, improve Canada's investment climate and protect public safety.

In October 1986, Parliament began a second session. Legislation introduced in this current session builds upon that record.

In the energy sector, legislation has been passed to approve the Frontier Energy Policy (C-5) and the Newfoundland Accord (C-6), to repeal the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax (C-17), to authorize loans for the Husky Oil Upgrader (C-29) and to establish the new Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (C-59). Legislation has also been introduced to provide parliamentary approval for the Nova Scotia Accord (C-75).

In the agricultural sector, legislation has been passed to provide $1 billion of assistance through the Special Canadian Grains Program (C-35 and C-49), to streamline and improve the Prairie Grain Advancement Payments Act (C-12), and to expand the scope of the Farm Improvements Loan Act (C-78).

To rationalize the government's portfolio of Crown Corporations, legislation has been passed to privatize Canadair (C-25) and Tele-globe Canada (C-38). Legislation to dissolve Canagrex has also been introduced (C-2).

Legislation has been introduced that will tighten up Canada's Immigration Policy in the area of refugee determination (C-55).

Legislation has been passed that will strengthen the regulation of financial institutions (C-42 and C-56).

Occupational health and safety will be enhanced by the new Hazardous Products Act (C-70).

Stronger measures to deal with marine pollution have been passed as part of the Canada Shipping Act (C-39). Proposed legislation to further protect the environment includes significant amendments to the National Parks Act (C-30), and a new Canadian Environmental Protection Act (C-74).

Income Tax measures already passed include more flexible treatment for retirement savings, a federal sales tax credit for low-income earners, and measures that will reduce opportunities for tax avoidance, including a minimum tax on upper-income earners (C-64).

The Child Tax Credit will now be prepaid to low-income families (C-11).

Legislation still before Parliament will further eliminate opportunities for tax avoidance, and provide increased flexibility for co-operatives.

The proposed Tobacco Products Control Act (C-51) will establish strict controls on tobacco advertising.

Proposals before Parliament will replace the War Measures Act with a new Emergencies Act (C-77) and provide for more effective emergency planning.

Parliament has passed amendments to the Criminal Code which provide stronger measures to protect children from sexual abuse (C-15). Criminal Code amendments have also been introduced that will deal with torture (C-28), pornography (C-54), drug trafficking (C-61) and war criminals (C-71).

Legislation has been introduced to modernize and improve the Elections Act (C-79) and to require paid lobbyists to register (C-82).

Amendments streamlining the pension appeal process for veterans (C-66) have been passed.

Legislation awaiting Senate approval will reduce the regulation of transportation (C-18, C-19) and stimulate the development and manufacture of new pharmaceutical products in Canada (C-22).

As of June 30th, 52 government bills had been passed in the Second Session. A total of 158 government bills have been passed since September 1984.

Water is evaporating

by Bill Kulas

Recently we have read much about the concerns expressed by local residents regarding the low water levels in area lakes. No doubt a problem, but a relatively minute one compared to what's happening in other countries. According to world news reports, certain countries around the world have received deficient rainfall this year, with many 50 per cent or more below normal. International experts put the minimum water supply to maintain proper health at 364 litres (80 gallons) per person per day. People in countries such as India are lucky if they get maybe half that amount. The water that we take for granted is considered liquid gold in many countries. We are fortunate to have in our area individuals such as Gerry Feltham, Keith Hill, John Stouffer and Wendy Gambell, who have taken it upon themselves along with many others to ensure that countries such as India are able to dig wells in order to quench the thirst of their inhabitants.

Gerry Feltham first visited India in 1981. Viewing the drought areas of Central and Southern India, and seeing first hand the plight of the Indian people prompted him to establish H.A.V.E. (Help a Village Effort). H.A.V.E. was registered in 1984 as a non-profit organization. Using the Walk for Wells event to raise funds, the H.A.V.E. Committee has been successful in so far digging 46 wells in India as well as having a four and a half kilometre gravity fed water pipeline in the Himalayas.

Just recently, a news report in the Washington Post states that India is facing disaster as a result of a terrible drought, unmatched in decades. The crops, the cattle, and countryside of India, a frantic search for water for drinking and irrigation has begun. The saying of, "It's a small world" sure applies considering that some hard working and dedicated individuals from our Haliburton Highlands have made a contribution to a country and a people in need. We can thank God for our abundant water supplies and at the same time, maybe reach out and help someone less fortunate in another country. What do you think?

Mac Wiseman whoops it up during the second annual Bluegrass Festival held at Glebe Park in Haliburton Village.

The asphalt plant located in a pit on Highlands Road east of Hall's Lake is contravening the Stanhope Township's zoning bylaw, the municipality's council meeting was told Wednesday morning. Elaine Burbidge, a property owner along the Highland Road, originally approached the council to object to the noise caused by the trucks passing her cottage carrying material to and from the plant site. However, as the discussion ensued, it became obvious that the mobile plant, located in the pit, was operating in an area not zoned for such use.

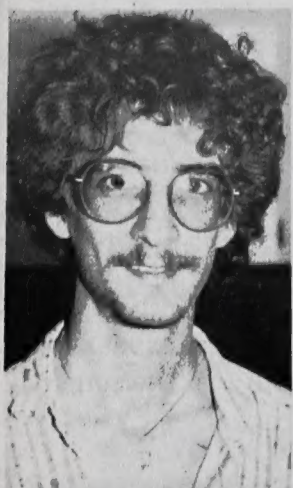

Burbidge told the meeting that she was awakened at 4:30 a.m. when the first truck using Highland Road passed by her cottage. She said she counted 18 trucks before 7 a.m. and estimated that six trucks per hour, on average, pass by her property.

She expressed concern about the noise created by the vehicles, the speed at which some of the trucks are travelling and the damage caused to the existing road surface in carrying the heavy traffic. She also noted that the smoke from the asphalt plant was "horrendous" and the smell "awful."

The property owner said (more on page 16)

Don Philibert

Bonjour! My name is Don Philibert. I am 19 years old and I come from Trois-Rivières in Quebec. I have my diploma in social sciences and in September '88, I'll go to the university at l'Uquam (Université-du-Québec à Montréal) in communications. I hope to become a journalist. My first language is french, so, my first month in Ontario was very difficult. The group leader said to me: "The first month is the worst." Now, I believe it because sometimes I was very frustrated about language but now, my english is better. During the program, I'll try to become bilingual. When there is a will, there is a way!

My host family is John and Linda Beachli from Haliburton and I'm enjoying my stay there.

I work at the Fine Arts College with my counterpart, Hanif Mengal, and it's very interesting.

Canada World Youth is for me a good opportunity to know the Pakistani culture, to learn more about international development and also to learn other languages. I appreciate each minute of this program which will be continuing in Pakistan (October until January). Special thanks to Jacques Hebert (from Quebec), the founder of CWY.

are living with John and Linda Beachli. They are among the 14 CWY participants from Canada and Pakistan who arrived here in July for the first half of a seven-month exchange.

Muhammad Hanif Mengal

My name is Muhammad Hanif Mengal, 22 years old. I am resident of Baluchistan "Fruit Garden of Pakistan". Now-a-days I am studying in 3rd Professional MBBS in Bolan Medical College, Quetta. After completion of my final professional exam I will take admission to the Royal College of Surgeons in Edinburgh, Scotland.

I was selected for Pak/Canada World Youth Exchange Programme in April, 1987. It is a great pleasure for me to learn something and see the way of living of Canadians. As I am fond of traveling and it was difficult for me to go anywhere on my own expenses. In this way I am very thankful to the Ministry of Education, Government of Pakistan for giving me a chance which I wanted. Before my arrival to Canada our field staff gave us a lot of information about the basic requirements of the programme in Istan Abad.

As I am thousands of miles away from my home, Mother, Brothers and Sister, the warmth and hospitality of the Beachli family impresses me and because of this I am not feeling home sickness. In this regard I am very thankful to John Beachli and Linda Beachli who accept me as a family member.

Now-a-days I've started my work project at Sir Sandford Fleming Fine Arts School and Potter's Fine Arts College with my counterpart Donald Philibert. I hope that I will enjoy the coming days in Haliburton with pleasure.

Licence fees being used to improve fisheries where stocking will no longer be necessary.

Once this project is completed, the ministry will continue to monitor its success, he said. In the fall, divers will be going down to see if the fish are using the new bed. And again in the spring, fry traps will be set to determine if the eggs are hatching. In four or five years, the fish that hatch this year could be large enough for anglers to start catching, he said.

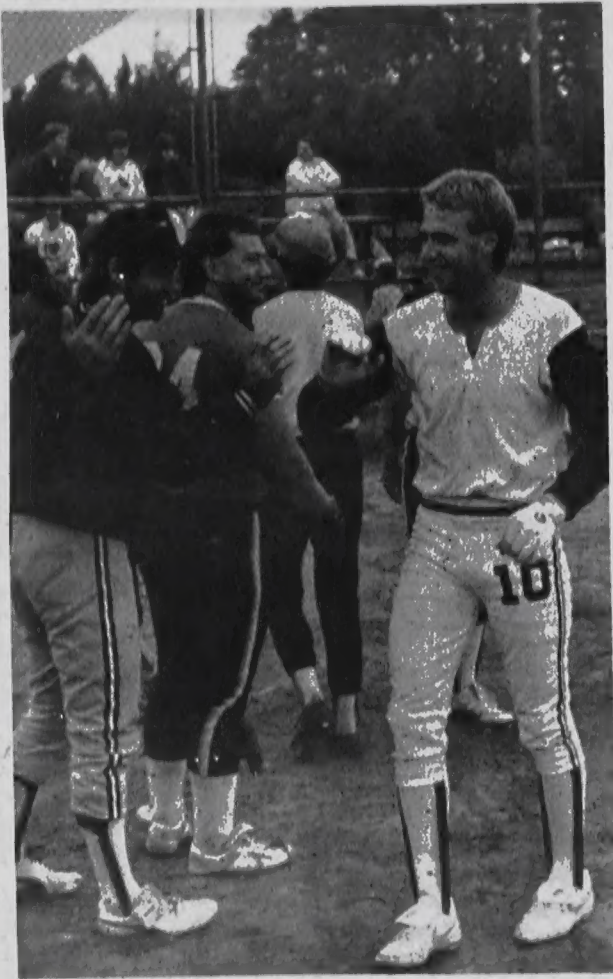

The project is being carried out by the Minden District office in co-operation with the Haliburton Hastings Fisheries Assessment Unit.

In addition to this project, several other projects which received funding from the licence sale, have already been completed or are planned for completion in the near future.

Some of these projects include:

- Printing of the new Minden District Fishing Map and Booklet.
- Stocking of additional rainbow trout in district lakes.
- Use of additional helicopter flying time to stock several remote lakes with brook trout or lake trout.
- Adult largemouth bass introductions into two district lakes.
- Walleye spawning bed improvement work along the Drag River.
- Lake trout spawning shoal rehabilitation work on two district lakes.
- Additional emphasis will be placed on fisheries enforcement in some parts of the district including lake trout lakes during the fall spawning period.

Hustlers oust Janetville 5-3

submitted

It was back to business for the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers last Tuesday night as they travelled to Lindsay to oust Janetville in the third game of their semi-finals.

This was a very close contest as Janetville, with their backs to the wall, played very tough ball.

The game remained scoreless until the fourth inning when the Hustlers erupted for three runs on a homer by Barry Shaw, double by Dwight Sisson and three straight singles by Andrew Burk, Jack Snell and Brian Mullholland. They added two more in the sixth for a 5-0 lead before Janetville came back in the bottom of the sixth with three runs to make it close. The final score was 5-3 with Snell the winning pitcher.

The Hustlers will now meet Lindsay Town in a best-of-five series for the Tri-County Championship beginning Thursday night, August 20 at 8:00 p.m. in Minden. This should be a very good series as the two teams actually tied for top spot in the league this year with Minden getting first place with the best record between the two teams.

AHM briefs

Items from the August 13 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council.

Council has agreed to urge a property owner to clean up a lot at the corner of Mackay Drive and Bobcaygeon Road. The vacant lot has been partially cleared in anticipation of a possible construction project.

The lot in question is owned by Joe Cannon. He had proposed the construction of a number of apartment units on the property last year.

The area residents objected to the state in which the property had been left, after a number of trees had been cleared and fill deposited on the land. It was pointed out that several of the trees had died as a result of the fill being added and posed a hazard to the hydro lines in the area.

The council requested the roads department to complete the ditching along Mackay Drive and to seek the owner's co-operation in cleaning up the remaining portion of the lot.

Sign assistance

The council has agreed to provide assistance to the Canning Lake Property Owners Association to erect a number of directional signs on roads leading to the lake.

The association recently completed a numbering system designed to assist emergency services in locating various properties on the lake. Now that each cottage has been assigned a number, the association plans to place directional signs at major intersections indicating which properties can be reached by that road.

The municipal roads department will provide the posts and the equipment to install them at seven locations in the township. A request for financial assistance for the purchase of the signs was not considered by the council.

New resurfacing machine bought

The Minden arena should have a new ice resurfacing machine early in the coming skating season.

The municipal council Thursday endorsed a resolution to spend $35,310 for the new piece of equipment. Delivery is expected sometime after the ice is in place for the coming season, around mid-October. Until the new equipment arrives, the staff will use the old Zamboni resurfacing machine.

Suppliers of the new machine, Resurface Company of St. Jacobs, Ontario, have agreed to accept payment for the machine over two years, at the council's request. The split payment was sought to permit the expenditure to be made over two budgets.

The council has also agreed with the recommendation of the assistant arena manager, Brian Clarke, to retain the old machine as a back-up and to rent to other arenas in the county in emergency situations. The Zamboni currently in use has seen 12 years of service, and companies bidding on its replacement said it had minimal trade-in value.

Two other firms bid on the replacement.

Toronto Royals win tournament

submitted

The Toronto Royals have won the 1987 Rockcliffe Invitational Fastball Tournament as they defeated last year's champions Bracebridge Bucks in the final game of the tournament by the score of 6 - 2.

The Consolation Championship was won by the Oshawa Juniors as they defeated our own Rockcliffe Hustlers in the final game by the score of 2 - 0.

The local Haliburton Legion Juniors put up a strong showing as they won their first two games before losing in the semi-finals to the strong Toronto Royals, good work boys.

The Hustler ball club would like to thank everyone who helped make the event a success.

53lbs of bass caught

Thirteen avid anglers, or groups of anglers removed over 53 pounds of rock bass from the Gull River during the annual Minden Improvement Area's fishing derby.

The top catch of the day was brought in by the team of Jeremy Phillips and Simon Prentice of Minden. The two lads spent a busy day hauling in 81 4 pounds of rock bass. Second prize was awarded to Brad Cansick and Mike Sutton of Mississauga with their catch of 67 8 pounds. The third prize went to Mike Rowden of Carnarvon with 515 16 pounds.

A special cash prize for the largest Rock Bass caught during the derby went to the team of Gavin Scott, Graham and Grant Wilson. The prize was donated by Gord Monk, who also served as official weigh-in chairman.

The derby is held in conjunction with the village's annual sidewalk sale. The business association sponsors the derby to assist in the promotion and to help remove the coarse fish from the river. Rock bass, while fun to catch, are heavy predators on the river's trout population and it is hoped by removing the small fish, the trout will have a better chance of survival.

Youngsters keep a close eye on the scales as Gordon Monk officiates at the weigh-in of the BIA's Annual Rockbass Fishing Derby August 7. Some 53 lbs of rockbass were caught during the derby held in conjunction with the annual Sidewalk Sale.

All the anglers who participated in the derby received a prize for their efforts. Among those who spent the day at the side of the river were Gavin Scott of Toronto and Grant and Graham Wilson of Minden. Brett Beach and Curtis Fielding of Minden, Mike Bragg of Oshawa, Mathew

Hamilton of Minden, Mark, Stephen and Ron Marshall, Paul Elliott of Scarborough, Jeffery Montgomery of Toronto, Tom and Cameron Neville of Lochlin, Ryan and Brock Ladurantaye of Minden, and Julie-Anne Adam of Minden. The participants received prizes donated by Big Jer's Bait, Northland Sales, Stedmans, Home Hardware and Jadek Sports.

Stanhope briefs

The following items were discussed at the August 12 meeting of the Stanhope Township Council:

Speed limit

The council will introduce a bylaw to reduce the speed on Hall's Lake Road to 40 kilometres per hour. The reduction was a request of the Hall's and Hawk Lake Property Owners' Association at their annual meeting.

The former county road, which parallels closely the northern shoreline of Hall's Lake, has numerous hills and turns. Children and adults use the road getting to and from the lake at various locations.

The councillors noted it would be impossible to have the new limit in place until after the summer, due to the delay caused by the preparation of the bylaw and the ordering of the necessary signs. However, it would appear the new limit will be in place by next summer.

Grading

Reacting to a petition signed by 31 property owners who use the Shangri-La Road to reach their property, the council has agreed to use an oil treatment next year in an effort to stabilize the road surface. The petition requested the treatment because the road quickly deteriorates to "washboard" after grading and they claim it creates a driving hazard.

The council had stopped using oil on the road following a letter received in 1984. At that time, a ratepayer expressed concern over the potential for pollution from oil run-off and the possibility the oil could contain contaminants. Since then the Stanhope road department has treated the road with calcium and regular grading.

A ratepayer in attendance at the meeting, suggested that the council consider using the oil and, where the road is adjacent to open water, the calcium treatment be employed.

Sales tax

The Stanhope council has endorsed a resolution circulated by Beckwith Township calling on the provincial government to eliminate the sales tax on items purchased by municipal fire departments for fire fighting or vehicle extrication.

The councillors noted that a similar resolution had been endorsed by the Rural Ontario Municipal Association and the Association campaign. While he may not have gained a new supporter at this stop, he said this is the sort of straight-forward discussion he enjoys.

Ward sets lively pace

While Eakins easily carries the greater public image into the campaign, Ward knows he has to make his gains by addressing the issues. However, so far in this campaign, there appears to be only one main local issue that might sway a considerable number of voters: the so-called northern schools issue.

On this, Ward is pledging to do everything possible to prevent the Board of Education from closing the five small schools. Eakins, while saying his personal preference would be to keep the schools open, feels the province should not interfere with what he sees as the board's responsibility.

With the first of a string of public debates not scheduled until this Wednesday, Ward is concentrating on making as many public appearances as possible. On August 19 at 6 p.m. the candidates will face each other for the first time on CHEX television in Peterborough. Other debates are being sponsored by CKLY radio in Lindsay, Lindsay Cable TV and the Minden Times. A number of other groups have offered to host debates but these are not yet confirmed.

By 5 p.m. last Wednesday, while most people across the riding were on their way home from work, Ward was just getting ready for the second half of his day. After a full day of mainstreeting across the riding and a brief meeting with some of his campaign workers at the Lindsay headquarters, Ward was setting off to Peterborough to make an appearance at a nomination meeting for the Conservative party in that riding.

Sporting a fresh hair cut received at one of his earlier stops, he still showed no signs of tiring from the full day of campaigning.

Nothing is for granted

that arise. He feels confident in his performance as the MPP for this riding and as Tourism Minister.

While the odds of him being returned to office have to be weighted in his favour, his backers are still planning to wage a full-scale campaign. Campaign manager Bruce Glass is setting up busy weekly schedules that see Eakins campaigning in this riding as well as lending his support in other ridings. In addition, he is required to attend weekly cabinet meetings in Toronto.

An indication that the party is not taking this riding for granted is the fact that Peterson is expected to make a stop here later in the month.

Summer fun under the gun

happening with the organization.

Recreation

Minden's Summer Fun recreation program also came under criticism from Graham during Thursday's meeting.

Depending on the interpretation of the final report on the summer program, the events were either poorly attended or saw only mild attendance.

"There is something wrong with the program if attendance is dropping," said Graham. He said there must be a lack of interest for the children.

Councillor Bern Berry disagreed with Graham's interpretation of the report and suggested that the program co-ordinator be asked to attend the next meeting to explain the report.

Fun at the annual County Fair

Photos by Bill Hodgins

Through the hot and hazy heat, hundreds of people spent hours wandering around Minden this past weekend. They didn't seem to mind though—they were enjoying the many things to see at the 123rd annual Haliburton County Fair.

Admission to the grounds was free Friday night, giving visitors an opportunity to see what was in store for the weekend and enjoy the treats of the midway. On Saturday, however, you didn't actually have to pay to see some of the excitement. The parade wound its way through downtown Minden at noon, featuring clowns, floats, bands, and horses.

Every event seemed popular on Saturday as crowds gathered to watch the horse competitions, the sheep to shawl contest and the midway. Scattered throughout the grounds, the food concessions did a booming business, especially those offering cold drinks. Fair-goers were lined up 20 to 30 deep at times, trying to purchase a burger or drink and the ice cream concession seemed to be doing nicely as well.

Of particular interest this year was the Sports Canada display which offered visitors an opportunity to test their athletic skills and try any number of new sports. The large display drew large crowds and hopefully will be back next year for the 124th annual Haliburton County Fair.

she was aware of the need for the construction crew to locate the plant somewhere, but expressed concern that the property owners along the road had not been notified of the increase in traffic. She also wondered if this was a permanent installation or a temporary one to meet the needs of the repaving of portions of Highway 35 in the Stanhope area.

The members of the council were not certain as to the length of time the pit would be used for the asphalt plant and they agreed to make some inquiries. The council also agreed to request the construction company to restrict the truck traffic to a period from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day.

Burbidge noted that many of the property owners along Highland Road come to their cottages to escape the noise and pollution of the city and have been dismayed to find that the quiet cottage road has become similar to the roads they left behind.

The council also agreed to look into the zoning regulations which apply to the pit area to determine if the manufacturing of asphalt at that location was in contravention of the township's zoning by law.

In discussing the matter, the council was also told that County Road 13, which serves the north end of the lake, could not be used by the construction company, since the bridge over Hawk River could not carry the heavy trucks. Burbidge noted that millions of dollars had been spent on upgrading the county road from Highway 35 to the Hawk Lake Road turn, and while the road is more suitable for the heavy truck traffic, the capacity limit on the bridge blocks its use.

well. He said barking dogs and loud parties on lakeshore properties were sources of disturbances for rural residents.

However, his motion, "to actively create and enforce a new anti-noise bylaw" found no backers at the council table. Reeve Nesbitt said a bylaw created to control noise in the village, wouldn't work in the country.

The councillors were told the township's anti-noise bylaw was currently being reviewed by the municipality's solicitors to determine its enforceability, while the property standards bylaw is being reviewed by provincial officials.

In a related matter, another downtown area resident, Corrine Howell, requested that the township erect signs indicating the location of the public washrooms. The operator of the Minden Texaco station noted that visitors make heavy use of their washrooms, disrupting normal business and, when the station is closed, individuals use the riverbank or areas adjacent to their property rather than searching out the public washrooms.

of Municipalities of Ontario at meetings earlier this year. The hope was expressed that this additional action will help push the province into considering this action/

Dog attacks

Another resolution, this from MPP Andy Brandt, was also endorsed by the council. It called for legislation to make owners of vicious dogs responsible for the actions of their animals. The letter from the MPP, also suggested that an effort should be made to close down illegal dog fighting operations in the province.

Reeve Harry Davis, while noting that the pit bull breed of dogs had drawn the attention of the public recently in regard to vicious attacks, any legislation should be broad enough to include any vicious dog, no matter what its lineage.

Pollution study

In response to a request for information as to why they had not been informed of the Hall's Lake pollution study prior to the media, a Ministry of Environment official said, delays within its internal information system had resulted in the problem. Initial reports in the Toronto media overplayed the seriousness of the report's findings and created a false impression of the state of the lake and the concern of property owners on its shores.

The council also wondered if the ministry would carry out follow-up inspections to ensure those systems found to be needing work were corrected. The meeting was also told that some property owners whose systems were classified as "seriously substandard" had yet to hear from the ministry as to the appropriate remedial action.

Further to the discussion, the council expressed general agreement with a proposal made at the recent Hall's/Hawk Lakes Property Owners Association that septic systems should be inspected and certified as working properly each time lakeshore property is sold.

Portages

The Ministry of Natural Resources has requested that the council consider identifying the canoe portages in the municipality on the next update of its zoning bylaw. It was pointed out that some of these portages may cross private lands, and the municipality may wish to establish a setback for new construction for these facilities.

It was noted that the established portage routes could not be changed, even if they now cross privately owned lands.

Road concerns are allayed

White water

Concern about what appeared to be a road under construction along the edge of a stretch of the Minden Wildwater Preserve was allayed at the council meeting when preserve manager Roger Parsons appeared before the council. He explained that a foot path is being constructed along the lower reaches of the river to provide easy access for spectators. He said a number of major events are planned at the site in the next few years, and felt that it would be best to complete the work as soon as possible. He noted that the width of the pathway may have given some people the impression a road was being constructed along the shoreline. However, he said, the initial construction had to be done with heavy equipment and a minimum clearance had to be maintained to allow the equipment space to manoeuvre.

The park manager said that once the work is completed, areas will be reforested and permanent bollards will be installed to prevent vehicular traffic from using the pathway.

Deputy Reeve Bern Berry expressed concern that sections of trees, removed to make way for the path, had fallen into the river and floated down into Minden Lake resulting in navigation hazards for boaters or possible problems for the power dam. Parsons assured the councillor that every effort was being made to ensure the debris is removed from the water.

The council agreed to install municipally owned portable toilets at the site for the National Kayak Competition planned for the last weekend of the month.

Chipmunks can be clever panhandlers

It would be difficult to find anyone who dislikes chipmunks. This active little fellow is generally ready to respond to friendly overtures; in fact, if encouraged, he turns into a greedy little panhandler. One hot dry summer when natural food was scarce, a chipmunk, who had been used to a daily handout of sunflower seeds, would come and climb on the screen door if the offering was late in appearing. Such behaviour is unusual and is more typical of the aggressive and short-tempered red squirrel.

Despite his friendliness, the chipmunk is a secretive creature. Once he has collected his food he will dash away to hide it in his underground den whose entrance has been well concealed under dead leaves or at the base of a stump. No loose earth betrays the entrance for, after he has completed his burrow, he digs another entrance from underneath and fills in the first workhole, carrying away loose earth in his pouches. The hole is as round and smooth as though it had been dug with an auger.

For all his frantic activity he seldom goes far from home. Most chipmunks stay within 50 meters (55 yards) of their den, and they guard this territory jealously. A chipmunk encountering a stranger in his territory will sniff nose to nose with him and then try to chase him away. If he is slow to depart there will be a short but violent wrestling match. When they break apart, generally the intruder will race away with his tail down.

Because they are food for many predators like snakes, hawks and weasels, chipmunks are always alert for danger. They will pause several times in a minute to sit up and listen. They are never far from the cover of underbrush or fallen logs, or from a tree which they can climb. A chipmunk can also swim if he has to. One thing he cannot do is leap from tree to tree like a squirrel. Therefore, he prefers to feed on the ground. However, when he scolds, he likes to sit on a stump or on the branch of a tree, flicking his tail in time to his call.

A family group consists of a mother with young. Otherwise adult chipmunks live separately in their own dens. The litter of pups, usually four to six, is born in the spring, hairless and blind. After about four weeks, their eyes open and they can hear properly. By eight weeks they look very much like the adults.

A chipmunk's day begins at sunrise and ends at sundown. He spends most of his time gathering food and storing it in special pouches. These pouches are dry inside so that the food is kept dry. anyone who has watched a chipmunk stuff food into these pouches has been astounded at the amount of food he can carry there.

He is omnivorous and, although he prefers nuts and the seeds of fruit, he will eat grasses, mushrooms, grasshoppers, caterpillars, beetles, birds' eggs and, occasionally, young birds. To get the seeds from fruits like wild raspberries the chipmunk will carefully strip off the flesh, leaving it in a pile on a log or stone and carrying away the seeds. If you find a mysterious pile of fruit pulp you will know who has been there. Like the squirrel the chipmunk often fails to claim buried nuts and seeds, some of which will sprout into plants and trees.

If he is clever and lucky, a chipmunk may live for three or four years. But a long hard winter will kill as many as half the chipmunk population. As we watch him rushing around stuffing his pouches to bursting we can't help hoping that he will make it through the winter. He is a pleasant companion in the garden or by a northern lake, cheerful, energetic and entertaining.

Birthdays to remember at Hyland Crest soon are Mary O'Toole, August 24, and Edna Cowan, August 25 and Joachim Gauthier, August 20 with good wishes to all. Belated good wishes to Daisy Sutherland, August 11.

There was an excellent Horticultural Show at the Recreation Centre August 6 and 7 with President and Convenor Illa Cooper welcoming everyone and introducing Verne Graham from the Municipality. The show was officially opened by Jim Trotter of Hastings who is District Director of District 4 O.H.A. There were 45 exhibitors with 334 entries. Sheldon Stevenson favoured the audience with organ selections. Most overall points for adults was Illa Cooper with 68 and for juniors Graham Wilson with 24. The People's Choice Award went to Lorna Rolland for Pelee Island and door prize was taken by Ed Elias. First time I've missed but will do better next year.

Peg Davis of Peterborough stayed last week with daughter Helen and Norm Lee.

Congratulations to the newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Bill Simmerson Jr. (nee Marilyn Walker) who were married last weekend.

Teresa Clement and boys of Toronto are staying with the Arnold Cowens while Al is away working down east.

There was a family supper at the Bob Davidsons at Minden Lake on August 9 with Tracy, Michael, friend Debby and Bob and Barb Davidson of Ottawa enjoying this with Lillian and George Davidson.

The family of the late Annie Cox held their annual family reunion Sunday, August 9th at the home of Mary Cox with 70 family members present. Families came from Minden, Cardiff, Roseneath, Peterborough, Golden Lake, Richmond Hill, Oshawa and Atlanta, Georgia.

Some people are under the weather, with good wishes going to Ed Shaw, Bob Hughes and Bertha Hughes.

One afternoon, Reg, Carol and Karen Leaman, Milton and I went for the boat cruise through Peterborough Locks for 3 hours. Enjoyable on a fine day, though hot waiting in the lock.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rylance and family of Rosemeath visited Mary Cox one day last week.

From South Lake Trailer Park, seasonals held a shower for Brenda Gerrie (daughter of Joyce and Dave Thompson) soon to be Mrs. Don Pratt. Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Bill Kent, Muriel Pritchard and Greta Alsop whose funerals were since last week.

The show was a smash and the theatre was filled to capacity. Yvonne's son Doug brought her an autograph from Placido Domingo (her idol) from his recent trip to Vienna for his company Lufthansa. He was with Placido and Zubin Mehta, director of the New York Symphony while he was taking a group of visitors through the city. Douglas has to make these trips frequently, for his company.

Hello Readers! We are having some nice weather these days. Our Sunday Chapel service was held by Rev. & Mrs. Burgess and Mr. & Mrs. Thompson. On Tuesday morning we had Rev. Kent of Minden Baptist Church.

Our sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Janie Kent who passed away recently after a lengthy illness.

It is nice to see Edna Cowan and Edith Welch home again. Elmer Crawford has returned also from the hospital. We hope he will be well soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Brohm from Lindsay and children were here to visit with me Saturday afternoon. It sure is nice to have friends come in. Doris Lyle (my daughter-in-law) from Sundridge came to see me Thursday, took me out for lunch, called on Jean Hewitt and then on to Four Mile Lake and visited with my daughter Anna Gordon who recently returned from Calgary.

Jean Taylor spent a day last week with her daughter and family.

We welcome two new residents to Hyland Crest Home. They are Mrs. Curry from Haliburton and Mr.

Simpson from Kinmount. We hope they will enjoy it here.

Winnie Barnum had her son and his wife call on her Saturday.

Movies this week were "The Basic Instinct" and "The Forest in Crisis".

We had Mr. Hughes from Toronto put on a ventriloquist show for us, which was enjoyed very much.

Doris took a bus load of folks on a ride Tuesday to Lochlin, Haliburton and home by Kawartha Dairy and home for five o'clock dinner. It was enjoyed by everyone.

It's as easy as that. have fun!

Farewell to Augusteijns

by Virginia Muenzel

In the spring of 1967 a small group of idealists who loved the arts as well as the beautiful Haliburton surroundings, acted upon a dream. From their collective efforts came the Haliburton School of Fine Arts.

Jan Augusteijn was a major part of the committee that set out to make Haliburton the "Banff of the East". With his experience as an administrator, his ability to raise funds, and sheer determination, he and the several other members of the unfaltering committee managed to organize fall classes with a budget of $1500 and the use of the recreation hall of the Royal View Lodge. They were even able to report a profit. A fact with which the Honourable Leslie M Frost was greatly impressed.

On August 7, at the home of Bob and Jane Heyes, a large gathering of friends and Guild members bid farewell to Jan and Dixie Augusteijn, who are moving from our area. Among the many familiar faces were Thilde Nevitt, former executive of the Canadian Guild of Crafts and long time convenor of the July Exhibition and Sale, along with Carol Duncan, a long time organizer for the School of Fine Arts, as well as a teacher of tailoring.

There were many happy tales exchanged about the ups and downs of the organization that, today, through the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts and Sir Sanford Fleming College, teaches a summer schedule of classes for some 1200 or more students from all across Canada and the U.S., as well as the fall, winter and spring workshops that are often filled to capacity.

Dixie Augusteijn, a gourmet cook and hostess of many business meetings was an excellent weaver for many years. She is now a published writer whose works include a family history for the "Tweedsmuir Book" as well as the story of her ancestor, Abigail Becker who became a Canadian heroine when she saved several sailors from drowning when their ship ran aground on Lake Erie. This in spite of the fact that she could not swim herself.

Jan Augusteijn and the rest of that wonderful committee did a great deal to accomplish the "Dream of Excellence" for Haliburton.

It is up to the rest of us to see to it that the dream is not forgotten.

UNDER LOCK AND KEY

We're all security-conscious these days. We're investing in good locks for our doors and windows, to keep out unwanted intruders.

Then why invite them in?

When you advertise your house for sale - on a lawn sign or in the newspaper - you're announcing that you will open the door to anyone who says he wants to buy. If you list your phone number and get a call from a prospective "buyer", what do you know about the person who's calling?

You need a way to tell the good guys from the bad guys, the real prospects from the sightseers. And that's just the function a good real estate agent serves - asking the questions that should be answered BEFORE a stranger walks into your home. Best of all, the reputable agent comes in with the prospect.

For your security's sake, list with a professional.

Lifestyle changes stressful

Dr. Stephen Dawson is a Medical practitioner serving the Minden community who writes a weekly column on health matters for The Times.

Coping with Day to Day Stress

Often, changes in our lifestyle and disruptions in our normal routine can cause stress. Examples of causes of stress are recent death of someone close, sickness or injuries, financial problems, sexual difficulties, conflicts with friends and family members, and fatigue brought on by inadequate rest, sleep and recreation.

It should be kept in mind that a little stress is good and can push us on to greater achievements, but excessive stress is self-defeating and can sometimes contribute to the following conditions:

1. mental and emotional breakdowns
2. eczema, and other skin eruptions
3. peptic ulcers, colitis and "irritable bowel" syndrome
4. disorders in the Endocrine ("hormone-producing") glands such as the thyroid, adrenal, pituitary, and sexual organs.
5. asthma

6. chronic and recurring headache and back pain.

Stress can play an important role in almost any disorder, and can complicate an illness by preventing normal recovery prolonging pain and sustaining a disability.

A "Generalized Anxiety Disorder" is a common problem that many people suffer from and is characterized by unrealistic or excessive anxiety and worry (apprehensive expectation). Examples are worrying about possible misfortune to one's child (who is in no danger) and worries about finances (for no good reason). Some of the following symptoms can be experienced in a generalized anxiety disorder:

1. Muscular tension - with jumpiness, trembling, or feeling shaky, muscle aches, tiredness, inability to relax and restlessness.
2. "Autonomic hyperactivity" This is the part of the Nervous system one has no control over and there is sweating, a racing or pounding heart, cold clammy hands, dryness in the mouth, dizziness or lightheadedness, tingling in the hands and feet, an upset stomach, trouble swallowing or a lump in the throat, shortness of breath and hot flashes.

3. "Vigilance and Scanning" This means feeling keyed up or on edge, with an exaggerated startle response, difficulty concentrating or having your mind go black because of anxiety, trouble falling or staying asleep, and irritability.

Sometimes, these symptoms can be brought on by other illnesses, conditions and drugs. Examples are an over-active thyroid gland, depression, hypoglycemia (blood sugars that are too low), drug intoxication and withdrawal, menopause, disorders of the adrenal gland, and excessive intake of caffeine, coffee, tea, chocolate and cola beverages.

Perhaps you've been experiencing some of these problems. Blood tests can be done to rule out diseases of the thyroid and adrenal glands, hypoglycemia, and premature menopause.

Next week I'll discuss methods of dealing with stress and anxiety to hopefully make life a little more enjoyable, as it's intended to be.
